THE NEW AND BETTER MARION

IS RAPIDLY BEGINNING TO MATERIALIZE.

CONTRACTS BEING LET

And Many Buildings Will Soon be Under Course of Construction.

Adams & Pierce changed the plans of their building and are now having the brick work done on the second story.

The plans and specifications for the Marion bank building are still being considered by contractors.

The contract for the large hardware store building has been let by Mr. Orma and this building will go up with the drug store and the hardware store building as well, also the office building of L. H. James. Adams & Pierce are handling the contract.

At the regular meeting of the city council Tuesday night building permits were granted to the following: E. J. Haywood, two story brick building, on corner Main and Bank streets.

Joe H. Orma, two story brick building adjoining above, also a permit to construct the large hardware store building for Cochran & Pickens on Main street adjoining the Woods & Adams drug store, including permission to build brick ware rooms.

L. H. James, two story office building on Bank street.

W. M. Jenkins, office building on Bank street.

Miss & Thelma, post office building.

Ed McCreary, brick stable for private use.

W. M. Jenkins, permission to build dwelling to his quarters in the rear of the Baptist church.

In the construction of new buildings for all opening on sides where there are exposures, fire proof doors and glass windows should be used. This method of building will prevent the spread of fire and as an additional reward it will be found that the difference in cost of insurance will more than pay for the extra cost of the fire glass.

MARION SCHOOLS

facts and figures showing them to be in most prosperous condition.

Nothing special as an exercise was conducted at the school here at 10 a. m. today. Every citizen and taxpayer had been invited and many were in attendance. Several interesting talks, and in his remarks Mr. Evans gave out the following interesting figures:

Enrollment during year.....	492
Enrollment list.....	428
Common school graduates.....	34
High school graduates.....	11
Books added to library.....	131
Building.....	$5,000
Heat.....	2,000

Occasion to Be Observed by Suitable Exercises at Piney Fork.

Crittenden Post No. 31, Dept. of Kentucky, U. S. A. R., will hold its annual memorial services at Piney Fork cemetery, Tuesday, May 30th, dinner on the ground for all who bring it. Comrades A. C. Delve, Jesse McCaslin and J. A. Grayson are the committee to get up program and to mark graves. Comrade S. F. Lloyd has been appointed to act as marshal. The floral committee will consist of the wives and daughters of all veterans at their tables.

J. M. Walker, Com.

Presented With Cornet.

Dr. R. L. Moore has presented to the Cumberland Presbyterian church an elegant solo cornet.

It is to be played by James Trevis in the C. P. choir.

Dr. Moore is a leading member of the C. P. church and takes an active interest in the affairs of his church, and in fact he never lets an opportunity pass to do something that will help the church. His congregation owns the finest church building in the city. There is a great need in all churches for members like Dr. R. L. Moore.

Charge to Students.

Under the direction of Superintendent W. Evans and his assistants, Rev. J. H. Seay, of Corydon, delivered a beautiful charge to the high school and common school graduates as well as all the other students of the school, at the school hall Sunday morning, notwithstanding the fact that our distinguished contemporary, the Press, announced that union services had been held at the school building.

completely wrecked and took fire. Twenty persons were killed and fifteen injured.

When the first explosion occurred bodies were thrown clear out of the berths in the sleeping cars, many landing down on the railroad embankment which parallels the railroad in that locality. All the physicians procurable were summoned to work with the injured.

PEOPLE'S INDEPENDENT TELEPHONE COMPANY

Secures Franchise Prepared Especially For Cumberland Company.

A LIVELY TILT AT MEETING OF COUNCIL BOARD.

Tuesday night at the regular session of the city council, the franchise granting rights and privileges for building operating and maintaining a telephone exchange system in Marion was awarded to the Peoples Independent Telephone company as the highest and best bidder.

This franchise had been prepared at the instance of the Cumberland Telephone company, who have been before the council board on numerous occasions recently, at both called and regular sessions.

The franchise was sold Monday at a public sale. The Cumberland company's representative did not bid higher than $100, and after they dropped out the bidding was between the independent company and Mr. Clem S. Nunn. Mr. Nunn's last bid was $250 and the independent company's $275, at which price the award was made and ratified by the council.

At the meeting Tuesday night, all the councilmen were present, with Mayor Blue presiding. The Cumberland company's legal representative, Mr. Meyers, was also present, and made a rigorous argument, attempting to show why the franchise should be awarded to his company notwithstanding the fact that their bid was lowest, his principal reason being that his company would in a few years pay taxes considerably in excess of the regular purchase money for franchises.

Anticipating a tie vote, with Mayor Blue presiding, Mr. Meyer, by addressing leading questions to the Mayor, caused him to commit himself as being prejudiced against the Cumberland company, and therefore requested him to vacate the chair in favor of Councilman Levi Cook. The Mayor declined to comply with this request, but stated that he would vacate in favor of Councilman H. F. Haynes, noting at the same time that Mr. Haynes had committed himself as being in favor of the Cumberland company receiving franchise. After quite a lively tilt, with both sides scoring heavily, the vote was taken, on motion of Councilman Haynes, to reject all bids except that of the Cumberland company at $100. This motion was lost by a vote of 1 to 1. Councilman Copher declining to vote on the question.

After considerable further discussion, the vote was taken on motion of Councilman T. J. Yantell to ratify sale of franchise to the independent people, or $275 bid, which passed by a vote of 6 to 1.

The independent company has been operating on a permit secured a long time ago but has never secured a regular franchise for operating and maintaining an exchange system in this city.

The franchise, as granted, will require the purchaser to furnish better service to its city patrons than has been given heretofore, but at the same time will allow them to charge more for the improved all metallic service within the corporate limits.

With the improved service which should now be required of the independent company, according to the terms of franchise privilege, the city and district is in a fair way to secure the advantages which are absolutely required by the growth and development of the mining and mercantile interests.

The Cumberland company immediately filed application for a duplicate franchise.

Stockholders Meeting.

Notice is hereby given of the regular meeting of stockholders of Louisville-Marion Mining Co., to be held Monday June 9, 1905, at Marion, Ky., at the company's office. Officers and directors will be elected for the ensuing year.

C. H. WHITEHOUSE, Sec'y.

Echoes of The Alumni.

More than one hundred and fifty graduates attended.

All of the classes were represented but two.

A merry hour that left no heartache.

J. E. Chipps was there as was also evidence of his good will toward the school.

The influence of the alumni is great. The younger the mind, the more easily influenced, the sooner the impression, the more lasting the influence.—Ask Dr. Chipps.

Prof. Evans' remarks made some of his hearers feel sad. At least one was heard to weep aloud.

The high school class of this year is a wonderful one in many respects. It is distinguished chiefly by having more members than any class of previous years. It has also Moore—Hope.

How is the country going to survive the shock of having such an avalanche of talent turned loose on it as is possessed by this year's graduating class?

Historians like Bancroft, orators like Demosthenes and mathematicians and rhetoricians who have had no peers.—Ask Yates.

These are fast times—send a programme to a former graduate and he will be settled down for life before it reaches him.—Evans.

The Hopkinsville branch of Lockyear's Business college was represented by Miss Carrie Moore.

Here a college sent a Wolfe and the minds of his associates (especially his —) will cleave (cleave) to his memory still.

Leslie Terry was there, but others got ice cream.

The long and the short of it.—Crittenden and Moore.

DIES FROM ABSCESS

Daughter of Evangelist J. W. Hudspeth Passes Away at Lexington.

The following is taken from the Hopkinsville Daily New Era of last Tuesday:

"Miss Myrtle Hudspeth, daughter of the Rev. and Mrs. W. J. Hudspeth of this city, died at 6 o'clock this morning at the Campbell-Hagerman College in Lexington. A mastoid abscess from which she had suffered greatly was the cause of death. Miss Hudspeth was seventeen years of age, bright and attractive and a noble young Christian. Her parents and her brother were with her when the end came. The remains will be brought to this city tomorrow."

Rev. Hudspeth will be remembered as having conducted a series of meetings at the Christian church in this city last March, and while here he made many friends who will be sorry to learn of his loss.

ONE HUNDRED KILLED IN OKLAHOMA TORNADO

GUTHRIE, Okla., May 11.—A tornado last night wiped out the town of Snyder. Estimates, believed to be accurate, place the loss of life at 75. One hundred and fifty persons were injured. In the vicinity of Snyder twenty-five people are reported killed, bringing the total number of lives lost to one hundred.

THE VILLAGE AT FAIRVIEW

IS GRADUALLY INCREASING IN SIZE.

DEVELOPMENT WORK

Is Being Carried on Night and Day at These Mines With Good Results.

At the Fairview mines across the river a village is springing. For its employees the Fairview company has just about completed thirty or forty residences. These have all been constructed with sand and cement. The concrete blocks have all been manufactured on the ground at a very small cost. Immense development work is being carried on night and day at these mines and a considerable amount of lead ore and spar product is being removed. The Illinois Central has instituted a transfer system between this point and Golconda, also taking in the product of the Roseclair mines above. Transfers carrying from six to seven cars are making almost daily trips.

The trainways from the mines are so constructed that the product can be dumped from the ore cars into the railroad cars. A sufficient force is employed to reparate the pick-over and wash the ore as soon as it reaches the surface and this work is so speedily done that but a very few moments pass from the time the ore is loosened from its fissure bed until it is in the car ready to be hurled across the country to its destination.

DR. J. B. MOODY

To Conduct Meeting to Begin at Baptist Church Sunday.

The meeting at the Baptist church will begin next Sunday, May 14. We have secured the services of Dr. J. B. Moody, of Hot Springs, Ark., to assist. Dr. Moody is a man of God and mighty in the scriptures. He is a recognized man of piety, scholarship and above all a preacher of the glorious gospel of God's tender mercy and sovereign grace.

God is blessing the world in various places with mighty revivals and why may we not enjoy His power? If God's people will all humble themselves and pray, confessing their sins, and looking alone to God for His grace and power, we can. We ask that prayer may go up from every Christian heart that the love of God may be shed abroad in our hearts by the Holy Spirit, and that sinners may be convicted of sin and with repentance toward God and faith in the Lord Jesus Christ they may be saved from wrath to come.

We ask the prayers of all the brethren throughout our association that God may bless Marion.

All are cordially invited to come to our services. Yours heartily, T. A. CONWAY

FORT WORTH, Tex., May 11.—Reports over railroad wires to Fort Worth say dispatches from Snyder, Oklahoma Territory, to the train dispatcher of the Frisco at Sadulpa, I. T., report a tornado struck Snyder last night, wrecking the town and killing scores of persons and relief is asked for.

MRS. A. S. CAVENDER

MARION BANK

STOCKHOLDERS MEET IN ANNUAL SESSION.

The Bank Has Ample Surplus to Construct Their New Building.

Wednesday morning of last week the stockholders of Marion Bank met in regular annual session. All the stockholders were present except Mrs. Carrie Maxwell and her son, P. D. Maxwell.

At this meeting a dividend of 10 per cent. was declared and $1400 was left in the undivided profit account. This undivided profit account, together with the insurance the bank carried and collected on the building that burned, will more than be sufficient to construct the $7,600 or $8,000 building that is proposed and for which Messrs. Harris & Shopbell, of Evansville, have already prepared and delivered the plans and specifications, and besides this, the bank has a surplus of $16,000.

At the stockholders' meeting last Wednesday the directors, H. A. Haynes, C. S. Nunn, and Sam Gugenheim, were re-elected.

After the stockholders' meeting had completed its business, the board of directors held a session during which the old officers of the bank were re-elected as follows: J. W. Blue, Jr., President; Sam Gugenheim, Vice President; Dr. J. V. Hayden, 2nd Vice President; T. J. Yaudell, Cashier, and D. Woods, Assistant Cashier.

The power having been delegated to the directors to proceed with the matter of erecting a new building at a call meeting which was held just after the fire, they received the plans and specifications from Messrs. Harris & Shopbell last Wednesday. Mr. Harris appeared before them and discussed the plans fully. These plans were shown to a representative of the board after the meeting adjourned. The building will have a 32 foot frontage on Main street, where the main entrance will be, and will extend down Bank street 53 1/2 feet, where, at the rear, there will be a stairway entrance and a vestibule entrance to the bank. The building will be a two story affair, with basement for the steam heating plant, and will be modeled after the Old National Bank of Evansville. The frontage of Main and Bank streets will be of stone and cream pressed brick of the St. Louis brand. On each side of the main entrance there will be two beautiful columns. These columns will be one of stone and one of brick, respectively, and handsome stone steps will lead up to the entrance from the pavement. To present the proper effect the building will be set back a few inches from the line of the street.

The glass to be used in the doors and windows to the first story will be plate and Florentine.

On the second floor there will be three suites of office rooms, besides a hall and the skylight shaft. One suite will be occupied by Attorney A. C. Moore and another by Dentist Richard J. Morris. Approximately these will occupy the positions as in the old building. The extra suite will front on Main street and will be just north of the Morris suite. This, in the words of my informant, "will be occupied by Senator P. S. Maxwell."

The ground floor will be most conveniently arranged. In front of the entrance is the cashier's window with a window on either side of it, to the left is the cashier's private office, to the right is the lobby with a large seat in front and the wall desk on the side. The vault is in the rear of where the assistant cashier or bookkeeper will stand, and in the rear of all this will be the directors or stockholders' meeting room.

Terrific Race With Death.

"Death was fast approaching," writes Ralph F. Fernandez, of Tampa, Fla., describing his fearful race with death, "as a result of liver trouble and heart disease, which had robbed me of sleep and of all interest in life. I had tried many different doctors and several medicines, but got no benefit until I began to use Electric Bitters. So wonderful was their effect, that in three days I felt like a new man, and today I am cured of all my troubles." Guaranteed at R. F. Haynes drug store, price 50c.

CONWAY-STONE

Sub-Division Now Open and Lots are on Sale.

The sale of the lots in the Conway-Stone subdivision opened up with the sale of a lot to Felix Cox. This subdivision is beautifully laid off and contains numbers of splendid building lots. Cream Depot and other streets extend across the addition, having their outlet in a street running along the west boundary and having its outlet in Salem street near the entrance of the Memphis Mines road. Through the center of the subdivision runs the street known as Conway. This will be a broad street and a splendid driveway.

The lots on Salem street are now offered for sale, and many inquiries have been received concerning them, therefore they will likely be among the first to be transferred. A small cottage stands on one of them.

HANNA'S LUSTRO FINISH

HAYNES & TAYLOR

From Newsboy to Clerk, Then a Member of the Firm.

We wish to call the attention of our readers to the change in the R. F. Haynes drug business. Mr. Haynes, who is known all over more than the one county, Crittenden, as one of Marion's most popular drug givers, and being especially noted locally as the dispenser of the famous drink, coca cola, has sold a one-half interest in his business to Crend Taylor. Mr. Taylor has been identified with Mr. Haynes several years—even since when, as a boy, he kept a few tools and repaired bicycles and was newsboy for Marion. This was not so long ago, either.

He has proven himself to be a conservative and safe business young man. He has been winning for himself these few years a reputation in business that many could envy, and he has nothing that has not come by merit. We have unbounded faith in his success and take off our hats to the new firm, Haynes & Taylor, druggists.

When the new Marion is built, this firm will be found occupying one of the finest business houses in the busiest part of the city, and we predict that it will be one of the permanent strong fixtures of the new and better Marion.

Delightful Social Function.

Commented: One of the most delightful social functions of the season was the reception on May 14th when Mrs. Robert Love Moore, Mrs. Alpheus Hamit Carlin, and Mrs. J. Frank Dodge were at home to their friends at the beautiful home of Dr. R. L. Moore on Depot street.

"All light in heaven of flowers That freshly bud and new blossoms did bear."

The house was a picture of that young, happy spring of which Spencer sang, for in every room the flower windows, though varied, told the keynote.

Like white With leaves of green and blue green From the stately oaks and the modest lily of the valley, from the snow ball.

"More white than snow New fallen from heaven, and the fragrant locust."

"Whose scent so chased the neighbor air, that you Would surely swear Arabian spices grew."

the artistic unity was produced without monotony of effect.

Passing from the hall into the reception room the guest was met by Mrs. Ollie James, and after greetings to the receiving party was ushered into the music room by Mrs. E. W. Wilson. Here, under the gracious management of Mrs. Sidney Marshall Jenkins, a musical program of rare charm was carried on during the entire evening. The enchanting notes of the harp, played by Mrs. Jenkins, the appealing melody of the voice of Mrs. Jas. Travis, the exhilarating vim and lash of the oft-demanded popular songs of the Misses Hise, and the piano solo of Miss Gustava Haynes, all found appreciative listeners.

In the dining room, Misses Della Barnes, Leola Wilburn and Kitty Gray each presided at a table where four guests were seated.

Passing into the library, Mrs. Edgar James requested each to register. Passing into the parlor, room they were served by Misses Fannie Gray and Edith Powers, and here they lingered long, chatting to the lively strains of the Ragtime, played by the little Misses Madeline Jenkins, Marion Clements and Roberta Moore, the tiny little laughter of the house.

CATARRHAL TROUBLES

Spring Months cause Sickness. Breathe Hyomei

BE CURED OF CATARRH

Catarrhal troubles are more common at this season than at any other time of the year. The colds and changes that come during the spring months are productive of many cases of catarrh that without proper treatment will become chronic.

The pleasantest, most convenient and truly scientific method for the treatment and cure of catarrh, is Hyomei. Simply put twenty drops in the little pocket inhaler that comes with every outfit, and then breathe it for three minutes four times a day.

No dangerous drugs or alcoholic preparations are taken into the system when Hyomei is used. Breathe through the inhaler, the balsamic fragrance of Hyomei penetrates to the most remote cells of the nose and throat, and thus kills the catarrhal germs, heals the inflamed mucous membrane and gives complete and permanent cure.

Thousands of testimonials have been given as to the astonishing cures made by this remedy. I. S. Nugent, treasurer of the New York Life Insurance Company, writes: Hyomei has completely cured my daughter of catarrh, from which she has been a sufferer for years.

The complete Hyomei outfit costs but one dollar, and as the inhaler will last a lifetime and there is sufficient Hyomei for several weeks' treatment, it is the most economical catarrhal remedy known. Extra bottles can be procured for fifty cents. Ask Haynes & Taylor to show you the strong guarantee under which they sell Hyomei.

Cleared for Action.

When the body is cleared for action, by Dr. King's New Life Pills, you can tell it by the bloom of health on the cheeks, the brightness of the eyes, the firmness of the flesh and muscles, the buoyancy of the mind. Try them. At R. F. Haynes' drug store, 25 cents.

COMMENCEMENT EXERCISES PROVING OF MUCH INTEREST

Now Being Rendered at Opera House.—Last Night's Program well Delivered.

The annual commencement exercises of the Marion graded school are now being rendered at the opera house. The entire program will run through three evenings, the first and second nights being devoted to the graduating class of the common school work and the last night to the high school class.

The school has completed its eleventh years work under the management of Charles Evans and the high school class graduating this year is the largest in the school's history, the number being fourteen. For several years the Marion graded school has been noted for leading the state in the number of common school graduates, and judging from the thirty-six bright boys and girls completing the common school, or eighth grade work the school means to continue its prestige.

Last night the audience that filled the opera house was given a treat in the rendering of the following program:

"THE MAN IN GRAY."

Beautiful Three Color Print.

As its offering of respect to the Confederate Veterans Reunion, the Henderson Route is distributing a beautiful three color print, entitled "The Man in Gray," which is receiving widespread admiration throughout the entire south.

The picture, which is printed from an extra fine etching, reproduced from an original drawing by Mr. Robert M. Hoe, the celebrated artist of the Courier-Journal, is 16x22 inches, and is printed on fine enameled paper, sufficiently heavy for use unframed, but equally suitable for framing.

It is executed in the three cardinal colors of the confederacy—gray, blue and red—on a white background, and has been rightly termed by critics "a gem."

They are enclosed in strawboard mailing tubes for safe transmission by mail, thus avoiding any possibility of breakage and insuring safe delivery.

Send five red stamps to L. J. Irwin, Louisville, Ky., for this beautiful reproduction, and after you receive it, whether you are from the north or out of the south, you will be an enthusiastic admirer of the "Hero of the Gray."

Railroad Regulation

A Letter on the Subject Giving Views of "The Guard."

Mr. Editor—Any fair-minded person is willing to take his chances in the struggle of life with other individuals, but when he comes into competition with the great modern corporation combining the energy of thousands of persons and in control of an immense aggregation of capital, under the direct supervision of a few active and perhaps unscrupulous men, he is led to realize that the contest is an uneven one and he finds himself more and more compelled to look to the government for the protection of his liberty and individual interest. The old laissez faire policy of government fails to secure to him an even race in the battle of life. The evils that he has to contend with are a natural outgrowth of the changed conditions that now exist. The constitution of the United States conferred upon congress the power to regulate commerce upon the states, but under the let alone policy of early times congress has practically delegated this regulation of commerce among the states to a few traffic managers who are in control of the public highways of the country. These men are well organized and hold their meetings behind closed doors. Their offices receive large salaries than officers of the United States government. They are not under bond or under oath, and they ignore entirely the interest of the public and adopt such measures as will in their opinions enable them to levy the largest tax that can be collected with the least friction upon the commerce of the country. This little band of irresponsible officials are exercising a vastly greater power of taxation than was ever exercised by congress. It has increased by various devices from fifty to one hundred and fifty millions of dollars per year until the tax amounts to over $2,000,000,000 per annum, or more than three times the total revenue of the United States government from all sources. We have in all cases provided by statutes for the limitation of the amount of taxes to be collected of the people by national state and municipal officers, but there is no law in existence placing any limit on this tax that is levied on our interstate commerce by this privileged class of persons, save that which the laws of nature impose on despotism.

Why congress surrendered this power to these railroad managers is easy of explanation, but is unnecessary. It should, however, no longer delay the resumption of it. The argument against it and against increasing the powers of the interstate commerce commission are all illegitimate and futile. They are made by persons who have wilfully and continuously violated the laws, and who by their violations have been largely instrumental in building up the great trust and monopolies against which there is now so serious and universal complaint.

There is to the average mind a seeming inconsistency in sending a poor devil who robs a hen roost or who steals a postage stamp to the penitentiary for a term of years, and at the same time call into consultation with senators and representatives the men who have taken illegally hundreds of millions of dollars from the people.

And to solicit their advice as to what the legislation upon this important subject should be. It may seem strange that congress has permitted this condition of things to exist so long, and congressmen have disregarded the thousands of petitions, memorials and resolutions that have been presented to them for many years concerning this subject; but when we consider the weakness of human nature and the fact that they have to run the gauntlet of frequent election we need not be surprised at their inactivity. For so long as they see on one side the voters conflicting indifference and inaction, and on the other side the corporations' forces completely organized and always active and alert in support of those who favor their measures and are ready to contribute liberally to their campaign fund, we may expect the ordinary politician under the law of self preservation to follow the line of least resistance. The fault is chiefly with the voters and the remedy is easy of application. Let them stand together in support of the public officers who are true to their interest, and stand together to defeat those who are servile to corporate interest, regardless of whether they are Democrats or Republicans. There is no set of men so completely responsive to an aroused public sentiment as those who have seats in our national congress and the house of representatives afforded a conspicuous illustration of this during the last session. So long as public sentiment permits public officers to accept tips from corporation managers, we need not expect a very deal of progress to be made in the correction of greater abuses. The railroad pass or frank of the express or telegraph company, and kindred bribes are the first steps to bonding and debauchery of the public service. The acceptance of these by public officers should disqualify him in holding the office if the voters will turn a deaf ear to the advice of the artful schemers who are employed to impose upon them and to mislead them by the use of fallacious arguments and by appealing to their party prejudices and be vigilant and active in attending to their duties at the polls they will be able to secure public servants who will be faithful to their interest.

ANNOUNCEMENTS.

FOR REPRESENTATIVE

COCHRAN—We are authorized to announce Thomas H. Cochran, a candidate to represent the district composed of Crittenden and Livingston counties in the Kentucky legislature; subject to the action of the Democratic party.

HOW SHALL WE VOTE?

(Elizabethtown News)

At the next November election the citizens of Kentucky will have submitted to them an amendment to the constitution to return to the old viva voce plan of voting and the consequent abolishment of the secret ballot. The proposed amendment is submitted to the people by an overwhelming majority of the Democratic members of the legislature and signed by a Democratic governor. There is no question concerning the fact that there has been much more corruption in our elections since the secret ballot was adopted than there was under the old system and also a great deal more fraud. But it is a matter of serious doubt whether this increase in corruption and fraud is due to the system of voting or to the general tendencies to these evils which have grown and multiplied throughout the whole country in recent years.

It is urged that Kentucky would never go Republican under the viva voce system of voting and that if the secret ballot had not been adopted the State would never have gone Republican. In other words that the viva voce system is very helpful to Democracy.

The ballot, or election law, however, should be put upon a higher plane than the success of the party, as much as a man may love his party. That system should be adopted which gives the freest and most uncorrupted expression of the voters of the State, regardless of who it helps or who it hurts.

There were two things that actuated the makers of the new constitution to engraft the secret ballot into our organic law: one that it would stop to a great extent the buying of votes, and the other was that it would allow the voter to express his real sentiments at the polls without fear of intimidation. If it had failed to accomplish these ends, then it has failed of its purpose. Under system a worker could march the man he had purchased up to the polls and see the goods delivered before he paid. There is no question that this was a much more satisfactory way to corrupt the voter and to control the election than to buy under the secret ballot plan with the uncertainty as to whether the goods are delivered. There have been a number of cases in this county where hundreds of dollars have been taken from one candidate and then voted for another. Such cases are calculated to discourage vote buying.

There is more or less of it done under the secret ballot, but it stands to reason that it cannot be done as successfully under the secret ballot as under the old system, and that the candidate who does not use money has a better chance against the one who does under the secret law than under the viva voce way. There are thousands of men who are intimidated by their employers or by public sentiment from voting their real opinions, under the open ballot, who vote as they please under the secret ballot. This is particularly true in large cities where there are large shops that employ thousands, and manufacturing establishments who number their employees by the hundreds.

There are two things, a free expression and an uncorrupted expression, that the voter must carefully consider.

On the other hand, there is a very serious objection urged against the secret ballot which does not apply to the viva voce way of voting. It is the falsifying of the returns after the vote is cast. This is a great evil and men should be sent to the penitentiary who do it. It is a great crime against the general welfare, and menaces the very foundation of the government itself. Election laws have put about it all the safeguards possible, yet in spite of this fact, since we have had the secret ballot in Kentucky, there have been many flagrant violations of it.

We have endeavored to present both sides of this question that the people must vote on, and we have endeavored to do it impartially and we believe in such a way that will cause the people to think seriously over the matter.

That vigorous Kentucky city, Marion, is, we are glad to learn from the Crittenden Record, rising from its ruins more beautiful and businesslike than before. Louisville tenders its smaller, promising and lovely sister city all good wishes for permanent prosperity.—Louisville Herald.

James Hargis evidently considers Judge Barker as being a great man. Barker refused to instruct the jury to consider Hargis as being an accessory before the fact and the jury hung readily. It is an easy matter for Kentuckians to recall a certain number of cases in which the trial judges placed great emphasis on the point with reference to being accessories before the fact.

The Hargis trial was rather peculiar. No one believed that he killed Cockerell or that he was necessarily near to the man who did. It was apparently proven that he was an accessory to the killing before the fact. A Democratic jury convicted Powers for being an accessory before the fact on the evidence that he brought men to Frankfort to prevent the Democrats from stealing the state. The court may have tried the Hargis case according to law but there is evidently something wrong about the law.

The enterprising citizens each of Madisonville and Kuttawa have organized commercial clubs. There is nothing that will help a town or city so much as an enthusiastic body of men striving together to advance the interest of the community. There are numbers of real live commercial clubs in the towns and cities of Kentucky that are of invaluable service to the communities in which they have a being, and there are those that may be termed morning glory or intermittent clubs. These latter are composed of a number of men who think a club is a pretty good thing provided the other fellow will do the work—they are too busy, you know.

As in Marion there is much good to be accomplished by business associations in all the towns in western Kentucky. The natural resources here are unsurpassed, but capital, industries and better transportation facilities are necessary to the fullest development of these resources. These requisites will never come unless we invite them, and how can we do it effectually unless we work together? Let the morning of the morning glory clubs abide with us forever and long may the spring time be of the intermittent variety.

The editor of the Hopkinsville Kentuckian, Chas. M. Meacham, who is just now very busy (a senatorial bee having been quartered in his bonnet over his protest) telling what the Democratic committee did or did not do in his district composed of Christian and Hopkins, in his efforts to remove opposition from his pathway to a clear field for the senatorial nomination for the state senate, has written another book denying his guilt in the Gould murder conspiracy. For more than five years this man has escaped punishment for a crime committed in his own office under his personal direction. Unless he wants to confess, it is time for law abiding people to quit reading the rot he sends out in book form. Mr. Meacham knows as well as thousands of other citizens of this state that Powers never had a fair trial, and that his would-be convictions have been brought about by Democratic judges and juries. But, while the editor of the Kentuckian, who is a politician, and judging from the quotation above a partisan, is speaking thus, the Louisville Her and which is just now engaged in a campaign to remove federal office holders from active politics says: "From the facile and agreeable pen of Caleb Powers appears 'My Own Story,' a book of surpassing interest and instructiveness to present-day Kentuckians, and certain to be valuable to future generations. Mr. Powers is central figure in one of the most remarkable episodes in American history. He has suffered for conviction. His sufferings have been borne bravely. He has, by manful self control under trials that had broken a weaker spirit, won the admiration of political opponents in his own state, and of honorable, chivalrous citizens of distinction in other states."

"My Own Story" is the narrative of a life, beginning in humble but honorable surroundings, leading up to the secretaryship of state of Kentucky, and thence to prison walls. The book deals with all the exciting features of the Gould movement, and with the various so-called trials to which Mr. Powers has been subjected. This generation shall not pass away till surprise shall be widely expressed that such deeds of injustice done under forms of law to destroy Mr. Powers were ever possible in old Kentucky, with all its grand traditions of fair play, truthfulness and chivalric honor between man and man. "My Own Story" ought to have a wide circulation. It is published by the Bobbs-Merrill Co., Indianapolis, and should find place in every Kentucky home, and in other states besides.

SILVER HEIGHT.

As I have never noticed anything in the Record from this point, I will venture a few descriptive items.

Silver Height is situated on the road running southeast from Marion not a dozen miles from the city, and is known as one of the highest and most beautiful views of the county.

It has one of the most ancient and magnificent Silver Poplar trees known to the age. It is said by some that it was the riding witch of Mrs. W. C. Carnahan, and that she planted it, while others claim that old Bro. P. L. H. Walker planted the tree more than fifty years ago.

We believe that this is a healthy place, for it abounds with sand and gravel, and is certainly a fruit country, for we have not seen a frost
since we have been here.

Crumbs for County Judges.

The court of appeals, Chief Justice Hobson writing, reversed the Franklin circuit court in a case of John H. Thomas against S. W. Hager, auditor, and remanded it for further proceedings. The appellant as, police judge of Lebanon, held twenty-two examining trials in cases in which the grand jury failed to return an indictment for felony, and the auditor declined to allow the account for holding them, and the judge filed mandamus proceedings
under section 353, Kentucky statutes.

The refusal of the auditor was under the act of March 31, 1892, allowing no such claims. The court holds that officers are entitled to receive compensation as fixed by law at the time of their election.

EVENING OF MUSIC

10th Annual Alumni of the Marion Common and High School.

Friday evening, May 5th, a most enjoyable gathering met in the new auditorium of Marion School to celebrate the tenth annual alumni of Marion common school and high school graduates.

Prof. Evans, acting as toastman, opened the evening with a duet by Gustava Haynes and Mamie Hubbard, which was followed by a general shaking of hands
between the graduates, after which a song was given by the young quartette—Ina Price, Pearl Ross, Gus-tava Haynes and Mamie Hubbard.

The most pleasant thing of the evening was the toasts given by one of the graduates.

A song was delivered by Mrs.
Walker and one by James Travis.

The refreshments were then served, which consisted of ice cream, and lemonade.

A song was rendered by the old sette—Mr. and Mrs. James L.
Harris, Mrs. Fannie Walker and Carrie Moore.

A paper was read by Prof. Evans in honor of the graduates not present, which was very interesting, letters from Mr. Hick Walker,
Grand Junction, Col., and Miss Schwab, of Memphis, Tenn.,
also interesting.

The evening was closed by Prof.
Evans' farewell address to the graduates, about 200 of whom were present, it being the largest gathering of alumni in the history of the school.

Crop Conditions.

Monthly report of the state department issued by Weather Bureau says in that the condition of wheat has improved two points since the April report. It was not so much improved materially, but it was improved. A full crop is expected. The condition of very satisfactory. Wheat condition, grapes and early carrots are damaged by the frost.
Condition of rice is good.
Wheat, 100; corn, 100.

QUOTATIONS AND REMARKS.

White heat is an excellent working temperature.

A library is a cradle of democracy.
—Carnegie.

Corn gives standing as well as the shivers.

I have sometimes asked myself whether the Democratic party must die before it can be born again.
—John Temple Graves.

Why not ask whether the Democratic party must be born again before it can die again.

The life that has forward as its motto has no backward.

I never said that to die rich is to die disgraced.—Carnegie.

The longer I live the less sympathy I have for the children of the poor. I reserve what sympathy I have for the children of the rich.
The poor boy is the only one who does things for no other reason than to do them.—Senator Dooliver.

I am far wiser to the knife and fork to the tin.—Literary gem from Joseph S. Blackham's opening senatorial speech.

Every man of us at a pleasant time.
—Roosevelt.

Honesty is the first and only consideration in politics.—Gov. J. W.
Folk.

Story itself today—this morning.
Sub-clerk have a knack at laying with promises to plural number that, "we" are the beginning and end of their verbiage.

He who gives an awkward advice to the young is a broader of crime, and a public nuisance. Yet there are Christians who will do the foolish thing.

He who says there is a God and then lives as if there was none, lives
a lie.

Early and late are two sisters
one cannot exist without the other.

The greatest influence to religious progress is the ideal making of practical work a day long—difficult to avoid days in a week
instead of one day.

He who keeps his religion with his Sunday clothes has the same thing happen to his religion as some times happens to his clothes—both rotten.

Some men's work is like some men's religion—I was in the third and fourth grade school.

Whiskey and religion, both
and without them are always eliminated by time.

Not how the play is paid, to the golden rule. Once upon a time the heads of great industries, corporations, etc., were delighted to have their tax bills cut by because "Napoleon" of France. Then they found that their enormous profits were in jeopardy. How the late war in the stock is grand like with a possibility of being superior to that which was to be seen in the distant future.
But don't we like reality things?

MOTION TO TRANSFER POWERS CASE SUSTAINED

LONDON, Ky., May 5.—Over the protests of the prosecution Judge Cochran, on motion of the attorneys for the defense, today granted the transfer of the case of Caleb Powers, charged with complicity in the murder of Gov. Goebel, from the Scott circuit court to the federal district court for the Eastern district of Kentucky, and will docket the case for trial. The defense asked for a writ of habeas corpus to demanding the immediate trial of Powers here. The defense contended that the federal court should take jurisdiction for two reasons. One is that they claim that the United States government, through the attorney general and postmaster general, recognized W. S. Taylor as governor at the time Powers' pardon was issued,
and second, that Powers' constitutional rights have been violated in his former trial.

NEW ENGLAND'S GOOD WORK.

Story of Her Wonderful
Growth and Development
Lucidly Told.

(The Baltimore News.)

What does New England's marvelous development along industrial lines mean to the south in the way of incentive and example? How may her beginnings and present pre-eminence in many lines of manufacture spur on the south to greater efforts in an industrial way than have yet been witnessed there? What is there in the history of industrial New England that may be carefully noted by the south and applied to her own present day activities with immense advantage?

It was to provide, in some measure at least, an answer to these most interesting queries that Mr.
Albert Phenix, a special correspondent of the Manufacturers' Record, was commissioned last fall to visit
New England and record, in a series of letters to that journal, his impressions of the genesis and present status of manufacturing in that section, with the idea that a story of New England's achievements, under adverse physical conditions would certainly contain lessons of value to those engaged in developing the south, so bountifully supplied with everything New England lacks.

Mr. Phenix covered his subject so broadly and so interestingly that, to meet suggestions that his letters be gathered in form for handy and permanent reference, they have been published in a little volume under the title "Yankee Thrift: The Story of New England's Marvelous Industrial Development," which is attracting very favorable attention. In separate chapters are discussed the rise and development of cotton, woolen, shoe, paper and machinery manufacturing, the significance of savings banks, labor conditions, and the material results of the application of grit, ingenuity and unflagging activity to the transformation of a semi-barren corner of the country into one of the most prosperous regions of the world.

It is the story of what New England, without natural resources, has done, and is published as an incentive to the south, with her limitless possibilities and resources. The chapters are written in a lucid, straightforward style, with just enough statistical information to illustrate the points the writer makes; and the story throughout is one that should possess deep interest for one interested in the south's growth and supremacy.

England's Marvelous Industrial Development." By Albert Phenix.

My Own Story By Caleb Powers

This book is a calm, dispassionate account, from the standpoint of the man most interested, of the conditions in Kentucky leading to the assassination of William Goebel, and of Powers' indictment and conviction on the charge of complicity in his murder.

It covers his youth in the mountains of Kentucky, the conventions of 1890, the election, the shooting of Goebel, the arrest, the three trials and the prison life.

For dramatic situations, human interest and political importance, the case of Caleb Powers is unequalled.

Still Selling Groceries

at the Same Old Price

We positively will not take advantage of the fire to demand high prices for our goods. Low prices and good measure is what you get at all times. Our business is conducted on merit alone and good results obtained at our store will be evident when you give us a trial. We have a fine line of everything, and we are selling at rock bottom prices.

Telephone Your Orders to No. 46.

We have sold our lease contract on our Pierce stand and warehouse situated in the police court room.
